

Removing the "established business relationship" qualification from the fax regulations is absolutely bad for business, forcing companies to obtain the written consent of their own clients who they have had relationships with for years.

How do we know which transmissions the FCC would interpret as commercial in nature?

Do Consent forms expire? What happens when an employee who leaves the company is the one who signed the form??

There are so many questions on this - this has huge issues for every business in america.